S. P. TO CURTAIL IF TAXES RAISED, DECLARES SHoup

Increased Rates Would Impose Hardships On Shoppers, Statement Made.

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 25.—The railroad had their inkling last evening at the legislative hearing on proposed increases of taxation rates when California's Paul Shoup of the Southern Pacific Company, acting as spokesman for the committee that if the proposed increase of one-half in corporation taxes was enforced the railroad would have to abandon all thought of expansion and discontinue improvements under way and curtail all branches of their service to meet the added charges. Then he went into a detailed discussion of the proposed rates which he said were inequitable for reasons he presented.

TAXPayers DISAGREE
Most of the session was devoted to hearing of Attorney General U. S. Webb delivered in person, that if the enactment of new taxation laws was not completed by March—a fortnight hence—the laws would be inactive until 1922 and this year the assessments would have to be made under existing laws after he finished John S. Drum read a written opinion by M. C. Shoup for justice of the California supreme court holding that taxation legislation enacted after March 7 could be operative this year. The committee was left with the opposing opinions to draw its own conclusions.

HIGHER RATES OPPOSED
Assemblyman Crittenden asked Shoup if the increase in taxation proposed by the king bill would not be absorbed in rates allowed by the Railroad Commission. Shoup admitted that that is the case, but that the increase in commodities are virtually unable to bear the present high freight rates. For that reason he added he would not like to ask for an increase in rates.

Alfred Suto appearing for the express companies cited statements contained in the report of the State Tax Commission of 1917 to prove that the present rates on express corporations are inequitable. These companies he said ran a business of $40,000,000 last year.

Suisun Bay Dam Is Boosted in Report
TRIBUNE BUREAU Sacramento, Feb. 25.—The chances for Vallejo and the entire section thereabouts to benefit by the Suisun Bay dam are advanced today by the word that comes from Washington that a bill giving government consent to such a dam has been reported out with a favorable recommendation by a House committee.

The bill before the California legislature is fostered by Assemblyman Robert McPherson and calls for a dam with locks at Suisun Bay which would provide a causeway over which automobiles and railroads could run and would make a great fresh water lake in the lower river valley and low water problems would be settled. It is pointed out that many of the conditions which brought on the Antioch suit would be relieved.

Hurley Is Gunning For Spies in Unions
TRIBUNE BUREAU, SACRAMENTO, Feb. 25.—The measures which Assemblyman E. S. Hurley of Oakland is privileged to introduce in the last half of the session will be a labor bill to make it illegal for detective agencies or others to employ spies to infiltrate themselves into labor union circles. The bill would make the offense a misdemeanor and provide for a penalty.

State Budget to Be Given Acid Test By Lawmakers

By AD B. SCHUSIER

THE HOUSE BUREAU Sacramento, Feb. 25.—Whatever the outcome of the king tax bill and whatever economy and efficiency plan is adopted here is scheduled at this session of the Legislature one of the most exhaustive scrutinies that has ever been directed at a California budget. Stricken by campaign pledges to effect economy and at the same time an attitude of defiance by the widely circulated charges that it would be possible to reduce the state's $1,000,000,000 from the estimated expense of the state, the legislature is determined to make the showdown.

If the utilities companies or any one else show where they can be made to come up here and do so, this is the attitude of the Senate in a resolution adopted by an almost unanimous vote and which means that the representatives of the utilities companies will be required to appear at Sacramento to point out the possibilities of budgetary economy.

IT'S OF STRONG
The resolution was passed after the first reading of the king bill for this session had been made. When Senator Arthur J. Peck of Orangevale sought to amend the resolution to have stricken out a clause which declared that it was the sense of the Senate that the matters of budget fixing and tax equalization are not related and that it was the opinion of the Senate that if hearing were given on the budget matter at the same time as those on the king bill, that the latter measure would be jeopardized for lack of time to secure passage before the legal limit March 7 there was spirited opposition.

Senators Jones, Inman and others spoke strongly for tax discussion first while Breed, Arbuckle and McDonald were leaders of the group that would strike out the clause. I want to say right now, said Inman, that a vote on this amendment is a line up on the king bill.

WHAT ROLL CALL SHOWS
When the roll call was taken there were 29 votes against the amendment and 13 for. Of the five who were absent Senator Chamberlain of the king bill so that the king bill is one would show that the bills opponents have 15 or enough votes in the Senate to kill it on the second reading. The figures, however, are not absolute for of those who voted for the Breed amendment, Senators Burnett, Duncan, McDonald and Gould are listed by the administration as supporters of the bill and it is probable that most of them will be found on the yes side.

State Expense Can Be Cut $8,000,000, Says Thelen
SACRAMENTO, Feb. 25.—Max Thelen, former president of the State Railroad Commission will appear for the Tax Investigation and Economy League in connection with the hearings here on state government expenditures and taxation matters. Thelen W. Clark, president of the league announced.

Thelen who was formerly with the United States Railroad Administration, is in Sacramento and is ready to appear before the proper legislative committee. Clark said.

The Tax Investigation and Economy League represents all of the public utilities whose tax rates would be reduced by the pending king bill.

Thelen issued a statement last night in which he said that the $1,000,000,000 in expenditures recommended by the state budget board would and should be reduced $8,000,000.

THIEVES EXPLAIN
His statement is as follows: At this time of financial stress and strain it is essential to examine most carefully any proposed budget of state expenditures. Every effort should be made to reduce the state's expenditures consistent with the continued efficient operation of the various state agencies and institutions.

"In making such analysis there are certain fundamental principles which should be applied as follows: "No increase in salaries. "No new jobs. "Due consideration to the falling costs of food clothing and material. "No projects or functions to be undertaken. "Permanent improvements either

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 25.—The state senate's scheduled resumption of work is being anticipated with interest by the public, and by the legislature, for the king bill, which has charged extravagance to come in and substitute their changes.

KING TO FIGHT SHIPINS
A new ally in the task of a new resolution to cut down the king bill, which has charged extravagance to come in and substitute their changes.

While the senate was enacting an amendment to the king bill, in a resolution to cut down the king bill, which has charged extravagance to come in and substitute their changes.

INMAN WANTS SHOWDOWN
It is time for us to have a showdown, said Inman. The corporate have been misbehaving the people into believing that this is a question of equalization of taxes but of economy.

SCHOOL TEACHERS AT RISK
A second amendment introduced against the king bill is that it is a direct attack on the public schools. It is a direct attack on the public schools.

BUDGET FILING TIME
Citing an opinion by Attorney General U. S. Webb, Senator E. S. Hurley said that the king bill would not permit consideration of the budget until the bill has been passed.

IN LIGHTER MIND
Then the house heard the oath of office administered to its new members. The speaker of the house, George S. Shelden, spoke briefly in memory of his predecessor William M. Collins.

Up-Town Association Wants Lower Budget
Resolutions calling for the reduction of the state budget to the figure of two years ago, protesting against the increase of the state tax, and demanding abolition of useless commissions, were passed by the Up-Town Association representing its members 84, 10 percent of the taxable property in Oakland yesterday.

Biography Attacked By Mills Teacher

The teacher, who was named Mrs. J. H. Pratt, said that the biography of Roosevelt was full of errors and that it was a disgrace to the public.

SEEING IS BELIEVING

Yes, my dear, as I was saying I simply couldn't have gotten along without them. And oh, Alice, you've no idea how happy we've all been in it.

And Alice, all our friends are doing it too. Really, it has become quite infectious.

But Mary, how did you first learn about it? Did some one tell you?

No, I simply read one of the papers in the paper and saw where they had so many nice clothes for men and women and even young people's clothes that could be had with very little ready cash. I had a little cash in my pocket and I thought, 'I'll go and see what they have to offer.' They have two stores—one for women at 1515 Broadway and one for men and boys at 1515 Broadway.

However, seeing is believing, so I investigated and since then—well, our clothes speak for themselves, don't they? —Advertisement

SLEUTH PROVES MAN IN PRISON HAS BAD DOUBLE

Witnesses Swear Away Innocent Man's Liberty Through Error

(Just as truth is stranger than fiction, so the reader may find in the newspaper columns more fascinating romance and mystery than is contained in the magazine or the novel. As proof, The TRIBUNE has selected from its news files one hundred mystery stories that have attracted the attention of readers during the past years. Here is another of them.)

WHILE the work of the majority of detectives is usually confined to the location of criminals and the securing of evidence against them, there is another factor which plays an important part in their daily lives—seeing that justice is meted out and that the innocent do not suffer for the guilty. Particularly in cases where identification by a third party is vitally necessary, the detective of real life has to keep his wits about him lest the chain of circumstantial evidence which he builds up ensnare the wrong man.

Such for example was the celebrated case of Adolf Beck, one of the most unusual of the many coups for which John Kane, chief inspector of the criminal investigation department of the new Scotland Yard was responsible.

ACCUSED BY WOMAN. Beck was arrested in the West End of London after a heated accusation by a woman who declared that he had swindled her out of a considerable sum of money. In spite of his protestations he was taken to prison, and there upon examination of the records it was discovered that he was none other than a certain John Smith who had already done time for a similar swindle and who had been released at the instance of a lawyer who had interested himself in the case. Apparently there was no possibility of a mistake. The measurements of the two men agreed exactly and as further proof Beck had a bullet wound of the same shape, size and location that Smith had had.

As a result his trial was a half-hearted affair, and he was sent to prison for seven years, this being supposedly his second offense. Four years later Beck's counsel succeeded in convincing the home secretary that there might be some doubt as to Beck and Smith being the same person so the letters D. W. Smith, signifying a second imprisonment, were removed from the convict's clothes but he was ordered to remain in prison as it was found upon reviewing the case that there was no doubt that he had committed the crime for which he had been arrested. Several women had identified him instantly and their testimony had not been successfully assailed.

WITNESSES SWAR. Three years after his sentence had elapsed Beck was again arrested on the same charge—obtaining money through fraud—but owing to the publicity of the previous case and the publicity which it had attained the judge withheld sentence until he could personally investigate the matter.

This was the state of the case when Inspector Kane happened to drop in at the Tottenham Court Road police station to glance over the lists of arrests and to see whether he recognized any of the men who had been picked up within the past two or four hours. As the prisoners filed past him the face of one of them struck him as being strangely familiar.

"If I didn't know that Beck was being held pending a further investigation of his case," he said to himself, "I would swear that this man was he. They look the same, they walk the same, they wear the same type of clothes. I wonder."

CHANGES HIS NAME. Detrauding women came the answer. Kane had just after several complaints sent at first, his name was Captain Wells, but later changed his story and claims that it is William Thomas.

Penn on a light in his cell, a dithered Kane. I want to see something.

Only a moment's inspection under a strong light was necessary. Phonics or whatever his name was had a scar—evidently made by a bullet—at the point of his chin precisely as Beck had had.

How'd you get it, he demanded. Kane but Thomas ignored the question and stated that he would make no statement until he had had an opportunity to consult with his lawyer.

The inspector said nothing further but on his return to the station and started a searching inquiry into the Smith Thomas case. It was not long which now appeared to have three distinct angles. Just as Beck was formerly had a bullet wound in his back, so now he had a bullet wound in his back.

It was not long which now appeared to have three distinct angles. Just as Beck was formerly had a bullet wound in his back, so now he had a bullet wound in his back.

BACKACHE?

If your kidneys are sick, or you suffer with lumbago or rheumatism at times, pain in the back or back of the neck, take a little "Auric" before meals. This can be found at any good drug store, and was first discovered by Dr. Pierce of the Surgical Institute in Buffalo, N. Y.

When run-down, when life is dull, has brought about a stagnant condition in the circulation—most everyone is filled with uric acid to excess. This uric acid in the blood often causes swelling of hands or feet, backache, frequent urination or the pain and stiffness of the joints and high blood-pressure. Are you such a sufferer? "Auric" (anti-uric acid) in tablet form is an antidote for this uric acid poison and will usually dissolve the accumulation of uric acid in the body.

More than a hundred Rotarians, representing clubs of Oakland and Richmond, met at the Hotel Oakland yesterday and at luncheon with a special program celebrated the sixteenth anniversary of the founding of the movement. The first Rotary Club was formed in Chicago on February 23, 1905. Carter L. Schmidt acted as chairman and called on the various speakers. One of the features of the anniversary luncheon was the introduction by the chairman of the various presidents of the Oakland Rotary Club who have served since its organization. The following were called on and made brief addresses: Robert E. Scheraga, 1912; Thomas H. Bridges, 1913; Jack Anderson, 1914; V. J. Lawrence, 1915; Albert D. Carter, 1916; George S. Meredith, 1917; John L. Smith, 1918; Herman T. Johnson, 1919; and Max H. Winkler, 1920 and present president. The principal address was made by Rev. Thomas Boyer of the First Christian church of Richmond, who said that the Rotary Club movement and its good work has accomplished throughout the country and lauded in particular the local organization. He also gave a history of the movement.

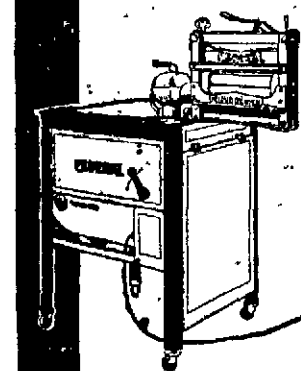

Measure Would Bar Peek-A-Boo Dress

OLYMPIA, Wash., Feb. 25.—Teachers and pupils in the schools of Washington are barred from wearing high heels and "transparent" clothing and the superintendent of public instruction in Olympia has issued a ruling which they may spend for clothing under the provisions of a bill introduced to the Legislature by Representative Harry E. Kennedy of Columbia county. The bill provides that teachers and pupils must cover their persons with non-transparent clothing "from the neck to within twelve inches of the bottom of the heel." Heels must not be higher than one and one-quarter inches.

THE BUNCH WAS AMAZED

—It still the wonder grew. Bob, the head salesman, had appeared on three consecutive days, all dressed up, in first a classy new suit and then a new overcoat and still the next day another suit. No, the boys at the office weren't worried, for they trusted him implicitly but to say the least they were amazed. "How come," they had asked, to which he had replied, "Why shouldn't I look my best at all times?" "A man," they said, "is supposed to judge upon his appearance. No, of course I can't pay cash for them but I don't have to. Chet's, 328 13th street, is where I buy them and all they ask is a small initial payment and a little each pay day. My wife tells all her things at their other store, 616 13th street, on the same plan. Give us your card to their entries and mine, too." Advertisement.

Lied Council Told Economic Action Will Not Cause Nation to Give In.

ONION, Feb. 25.—Premier Katsouris, head of the Greek delegation attending the Near East conference, declared today that the Greeks will not accept the terms proposed by the Turks for a settlement of the Ottoman problem.

The Ottoman delegates pledged key to abide by the allied commission's decision regarding the future status of Turkish territory on condition that the Greek army in Syria is not moved nor reinforced.

Then two Turkish delegations and Greek representatives appeared.

CHILDREN GUARD IMMIGRANTS FROM RADICAL ALIENS

New Method Devised to Keep Newly Arrived From In- fluence of Reds.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—The Scriptural dictum that "a little child shall lead them" is being applied to thousands of immigrants in New York's East Side.

A practical demonstration was described today by Harry H. Schacht, head of the Commission on Immigration Aid at Ellis Island, who said that the new plan to protect newcomers from exploitation by their unscrupulous predecessors and radicals.

Through the Downtown Chamber of Commerce, membership of which is limited to foreign-born merchants, bankers and other business men who have gained wealth in this country, Schacht has developed a plan for placing children of immigrants, fresh from the bowlders of official red tape and the fumes of New York skyline—in the custody of an American, or Americanized, school girl.

Two thousand of such girls are spending their evenings and spare hours infusing their charges with American ideas and the rudiments of the English language.

Stimulated not only by innate interest in the quaint, dejected and often victimized and disillusioned seekers for new homes but also by reward from the Chamber of Commerce for meritorious results, these girls can be seen every evening, by dim lights, spelling out a-t-r-a-d, and other simple words to enraptured old patriarchs, scarcely aware that they are transplanted in a strange and yet not dissimilar country from that whence they came at such a sacrifice.

But before tell you in detail of this Americanization work and its results," interposed Schacht, "let me tell you something of why they are so dejected, disillusioned and why they may easily fall prey to radicalism."

POIGNANT EXPERIENCE.

He then told of how he was wrenched to the necessity for this work by some poignant experiences he had going through Ellis Island disguised as an immigrant, just to learn something of the circumstances under which thousands uproot themselves from their homes, sacrificing everything they own, in order to come to America, that magic land pictured to them in rosy hues by exploiters more interested in stuffing their pockets with gold than in humanitarian motives.

Understanding their own language, Schacht mingled with the immigrants throughout their trials at admission and learned, he said, that thousands had been induced to migrate by members of an organization, which has swindled them of everything they owned before taking them on shipboard.

Since he has been on the island, Schacht said he had investigated these organizations, which he characterized as "professional film-farmers," and has caused indictment of several of them, some of whom have fled the country and the cases of some are still pending.

Numerous others, he said, who had luxurious offices in New York, have disappeared away and abandoned operations. He described their operations, while in full swing, somewhat as follows:

They canvassed East Side homes to learn if they had relatives on the other side whom they wanted brought to America. Invariably such was the case. These "friends" then told the East Siders they were going to Europe and if they liked would bring back the desired relatives. Delighted with this "kindness," the East Siders would offer up all the money they could scrape together to help their loved ones on their voyage.

ROBBED BOTH ENDS.

Equipped with these foreign addresses, the only thing that really interested the exploiters, these "agents" set out for Europe to transfer the immigrants to new fields. But instead of turning over the money sent by anxious relatives, they would demand all they could get from the poor Europeans before taking the necessary steps to place them on ships bound for America. If they could get enough, they could do this through questionable methods with passport bureaus and shipping companies, Schacht said.

"So you see," he said, "they swindle them both going and coming. The whole wholesale exploitation," he continued, "is what makes it necessary to do intensive Americanization work among these poor families, who, through no fault of their own, land among us without education and without anything but a mis-conceived idea that America is a worse place to live than their home countries. They are ripe for further exploitation by the same kind of swindlers who have lured them here."

While it is imperative to correct this immigration menace at its source, Schacht said, those who have been dumped into this country through influences other than their own volition must be looked after. This is what the "Junior American Missionaries," as these school girls are called, are doing. Feeling that they are a family placed in their care has failed to make good," he said.

Panamans Rise To Repel Costa Rican Invasion

Army Is Being Assembled and Violent Demonstra- tions Being Made.

PANAMA, Feb. 25.—Violent anti-Costa Rican demonstrations occurred in this city last night, reaching their culmination in an attack upon the Costa Rican consulate. The consulate was torn from the door and ransacked under the feet of the crowd.

President Porras made a patriotic address, calling upon "brave Panamanians" to present themselves today for the formation of military forces in case such a step should be necessary.

The presidential office made public today continuing reports that Costa, a district of the Pacific end of the Panama-Costa isthmian frontier, had been occupied by Costa Rican forces.

Costa has claims this territory in accordance with the award handed down in 1914 by Chief Justice White of the United States Supreme Court, who was named arbitrator. Panama has declined to accept his decision, a statement said.

There are unconfirmed reports that 200 more men have been sent to the Atlantic end of the frontier near Los Angeles.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—The United States Government has been asked by Panama to order the United States to avoid any bloodshed in Central America growing out of the alleged invasion of Panama soil by Costa Rican troops.

Acting on instructions from President Porras, Charge d'Affaires Levine informed the State Department that what first advice received from Costa Rica to Panama was an armed invasion. He requested that the United States intercede with the Costa Rican minister.

M'DONALD ASKS INDEMNITY, THEN HE WILL TESTIFY

Mooney Case Witness Refuses To Tell Perjury Story To Grand Jury.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 25.—John McDonald, star witness against Thomas Mooney and Warren K. Billings, who came here from the Atlantic seaboard after repudiating his testimony and declaring that he had perjured himself on the witness stand, is not prepared to go before the grand jury unless he can see a way to escape prosecution. This fact became known today following a session of the legal but last night during which the Mooney case was discussed for three hours.

It was expected that McDonald would be a witness, but he did not appear. Instead, he was interviewed by a committee from the grand jury. Exactly what transpired is being carefully guarded. But it was learned today that McDonald is seeking some sort of immunity contract from the government.

Captain Matthewson has been quoted as favoring the prosecution of McDonald for perjury, if, as he now states, he did not recant. Mooney and Billings as the men responsible for placing the suitcase containing the preparedness parade bombs at Stuart and Market streets. McDonald told the grand jury, it is understood, that he is unwilling to testify to the real facts of the case as he sees them if it means a long prison term for him. The question of immunity was discussed and it was agreed that McDonald should consult an attorney and a further conference be held with the grand jury.

Ranches Divided to Aid Settlers

ZACATECAS, Mex., Feb. 25.—Two hundred and ten applicants have been granted fractions of agricultural lands near Fresnillo, in this state. These fractions have been formed from the extensive haciendas known as Hacienda Grande, Monon, Santa Cruz and Valderas. Forty more applications are pending from small farmers who wish to be located as soon as the survey is completed.

Luis G. Aguilar, prominent attorney of Zacatecas, and owner of the Taxahua ranch, has voluntarily given an extensive acreage of agricultural land to be divided into fractions for colonization by small independent farmers.

The people are beginning to realize the government's firm intention of aiding those who wish to work independently in colonizing small tracts of land taken from the large haciendas. The state of Zacatecas is far ahead in this work, but other states are taking up the same work.

Prices of farm products have shown a price decline of 21 per cent since November, 1919.

SAN FRANCISCO SEEKS HELP IN FIGHT ON RATES

Appeals To Oakland To Take Part in Contest With Power Concerns.

An appeal from the city of San Francisco to City Attorney H. L. Hagan today asking that Oakland participate with San Francisco and other cities in the Pacific Gas and Electric and Great Western rate cases was countered by a letter from the Railroad Commission to Mayor Davis today. The commission is unable to handle the matter without assistance. The commission's letter was discussed today by the city council without any final action. San Francisco, in its letter to Hagan, stated that the valuation is of vital importance and will follow "the most extensive investigation ever held by the Railroad Commission."

"The utility companies," it says, "are thoroughly prepared to present their case in San Francisco by their counsel, and we suggest that the matter be called urgently to the attention of the officials of Oakland."

"Both sides seem to have some local," said Commissioner Edwards. "The Railroad Commission seems to handle the matter and yet the cities are vitally interested."

"I do not understand this matter," said Commissioner Edwards. "The commission seems to be the one civil service board. Every case has to be represented apparently by counsel and the board has no power to make any decision. The Railroad Commission seems to have the same idea. It should represent the people."

"I am saving nothing," said Commissioner Edwards.

"We had an expert one time," said the Mayor. "We ought to go slow about appointing experts."

"We can safely leave much of this to City Attorney Hagan," said Edwards. "He has established a great record for efficiency."

"I am saving nothing," said Commissioner Edwards.

"The rate case is a very important matter," said Commissioner Edwards.

"The rates mean millions of dollars every year. We ought to make it our business to see that fair and just rates are made. I believe we ought to be represented."

"The matter will come up for another discussion when Hagan makes his report."

Georgette Cohan Changes Name In Elopement

Daughter of Theatrical Man Becomes the Bride of J. William Souther.

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 25.—Georgette Cohan, daughter of George M. Cohan and J. William Souther, eloped to West Palm Beach last night and were married.

The ceremony was performed by Justice of the Peace George H. Smith after the couple had traveled fifteen miles to obtain a marriage license from the county clerk. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Souther went to a party on Jesse L. Lasker's yacht and calmly announced their marriage.

James W. Day Jr. of California and G. T. Subinger of Chicago were witnesses of the ceremony.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—I don't know the man, but I'm glad an American woman was the bride today of George M. Cohan's daughter and dramatist when told that his daughter Georgette had eloped away last night at West Palm Beach, Fla., and married J. William Souther.

Liquor Concealed On Steamer Nile Seized

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 25.—The United States revenue cutter, the Nile, seized a steamer today which was carrying a large quantity of liquor concealed on board.

The Nile, which is a revenue cutter, was patrolling the coast today when it discovered the steamer Nile. The Nile's crew found six cases of Scotch whisky, 123 bottles of whisky, 75 bottles of brandy and 48 bottles of rum.

The Nile's crew also found a large quantity of liquor concealed in various secret hiding places on the boat. Some of it was smuggled down the smokestack and some in the fire-fighting apparatus.

State in Danger From High Taxes Says Controller

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 25.—That all is not well with the state present tax system is the note struck by John S. Chambers, con- troller in his report today to the governor today.

Chambers' report states that the state's present tax system is in danger of collapse. He says that the state's revenue is being drained by high taxes, and that the state's credit is being ruined.

JAPAN'S GRAB FOR THE CABLES

Despatches from Paris yesterday reported that the Council of the League of Nations had practically decided to ignore the protest sent to it by Secretary of State Colby against including control of the Island of Yap and its cable stations in the mandatory over the former German islands in the North Pacific which it has been agreed to give to Japan. It was stated to be the intention of the League Council to refer the matter to the conference of the Supreme Council of the Allied Powers, about to convene in London.

It may be, and probably is, the intention of the League Council to avoid consideration of the American protest on the ground that rules of procedure contemplate that it should be addressed to another agency. But that either it or the Allied Supreme Council, which is still functioning quite actively in disposing of the world's affairs, must take cognizance of the objections of this government in the matter is a pretty safe conclusion. And since the Council of the League of Nations is about to give effect to the several mandates that have been apportioned by giving its approval to each, it would seem that that body must of necessity consider the American position sooner or later.

Mr. Colby's protest recites that the mandatory for the former German Pacific islands north of the Equator must not be finally disposed of until the United States is consulted. The League of Nations Council says, in effect, either that the protest is not well-founded or that it is not at present pertinent to the Council's consideration. Let the record be examined. A treaty of peace between the Allied Powers and the United States on the one hand and Germany on the other was signed at Versailles on June 28, 1919. By its own terms, that treaty was to become effective when Germany and three of the "Principal Associated and Allied Powers" ratified it. That condition has been fulfilled. The treaty is now in effect and is being carried out. That the United States has so far withheld ratification has had no effect whatever upon the legal completion of the treaty.

In article 119, section 1, part 4, of the treaty, "Germany renounces in favor of the Principal Allied and Associated Powers all her rights and titles over her overseas possessions." Annex 7 of the treaty reads:

"Germany renounces on her own behalf and on behalf of her nationals in favor of the Principal Allied and Associated Powers all rights, titles or privileges of whatever nature in the submarine cables set out below, or in any portions thereof:

"Yap-Shanghai, Yap-Guam, and Yap-Menado (Celebes): from Yap Island to Shanghai, from Yap Island to Guam, and from Yap Island to Menado."

Now, the United States is the principal "Associated" power, referred to above. She was one of the principal belligerents in the war against Germany and, without depreciating the effort of the European Allies, one of the principal factors in winning the victory over the enemy. In the peace treaty, as quoted above, it is expressly provided that the German properties referred to are relinquished to a group of powers of which the United States is a principal. The United States thus acquired a legal right, by international contract, to participation in the Yap Island cables. There can be no logical contribution of this fact. It is but natural, therefore, that the United States would prefer to be consulted before the final disposition of these properties by the mandatory or any other route. That the Allied powers in planning their mandatory scheme did not think to consult this government regarding Yap is astounding. That they will try to evade that courtesy when the matter is called to their attention in so frank a manner as in the Colby note is unthinkable.

The British government has perhaps been the leading influence in arriving at the European understanding for turning the Yap Island cables over to Japan, though Italy and France, because of their part in the secret agreements of 1917, must also be charged with responsibility. All these governments are under a distinct obligation to respond promptly, if not favorably, to the American contention for the right of a consultation which has for its purpose the equitable disposition of the former German Pacific cables.

There is another consideration which should appeal with some force to the European powers in this connection. It is not based in legal theories and contracts, but it is deep-rooted in morality. Japan, who schemes to gain control of these highly important facilities of transpacific communications, failed to contribute very much of material or spiritual value to the victorious outcome of the war. Her naval force, large, ample, efficient and ready for action, did not encounter a single German raider in the Pacific, although there was a marauding squadron of German war ships in the Pacific. It was necessary for Great Britain to send a naval force to clear the ocean of the menace and as a result the Germans were engaged off the Chilean coast and destroyed. Spiritually Japan's most notable performance was a violent anti-ally agitation in 1916. Substantially, her main performance was to grab territory, shanting in China, Pacific archipelagos and Siberia.

The United States contributed the deciding strength for the overthrow of the German war machine.

It is entirely reasonable, in view of all the circumstances, that this country would welcome an opportunity to express its opinion on a matter which involves an overt disregard of the plain stipulations of the Versailles treaty.

THEIR HOME PORT

Due to a federal order delayed many unfair years, Oakland is henceforth to enjoy one other advantage that accrues to a great deep water ship port. Merchant ships built or owned in this port now will have the name of their home port, "Oakland," painted on their stern.

As they enter the many ports of the world, along the routes of maritime commerce, they will proclaim the fact that a harbor with great ship building establishments exists on the continental shore of San Francisco bay, where wharves are laid alongside the tracks of transcontinental railways.

It may appear as news to the foreign peoples, but they will soon learn that the shipping facilities in this harbor port have been in existence a long time, have been tried and are attractive because of their proven and superior merit.

WEST GOES EAST

Yale University is one of the famous educational institutions of the country and its president occupies a more or less eminent place in national thought and conduct. It will therefore be of more than passing interest to college men and women everywhere that Dr. James B. Angell has been chosen by the Yale corporation to succeed President Hadley, who retires a few months hence.

Dr. Angell has for many years been a conspicuous figure in the Western—as Easterners use this term it does not include the Pacific Coast—field of education. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan and has taken graduate courses at Harvard, Berlin and Halle. And, curiously enough, he is the first Harvard man to be chosen for the presidency of Yale. His first post-graduate position was instructor in psychology in the University of Minnesota, where he later became the head of the department of psychology. In 1913 he accepted a professorship in the University of Chicago, later became dean and in 1918 and 1919 served as acting president of that university. Two years ago he became chairman of the National Research Council and last year accepted the presidency of the Carnegie Foundation.

Thus Dr. Angell has grown and developed in the Middle West, under that phase of spiritual America commonly designated as Western, and happily he has displayed in action that vigor and directness which is sometimes said to bespeak a Western training and spirit. Dr. Angell's father, the late James Burrill Angell, also passed the years of his most distinguished activity in the West. He was for many years President of the University of Michigan and known particularly for his knowledge of and interest in Oriental affairs. Among other public employments, Dr. Angell the elder was the American minister plenipotentiary to China in 1880 to negotiate a new treaty with that country and the influence of that performance of duty has long been felt in the relations between China and the United States.

Therefore, the new Yale president is to a large and ponderable extent an example of the East calling upon the West for a college executive. Many New Englanders regard it as quite unnecessary and a few will condemn it as downright apostasy. But the East, and especially Yale University, will not lose by the deal.

The joint conference committee of the Senate and the House has reached an agreement on the Pordney emergency tariff bill. It will be finally passed in both chambers today or tomorrow and then President Wilson's disposition regarding it will be revealed. That the measure will be vetoed is practically certain and opponents of the bill claim that the Democratic minority in the Senate will be strong enough to prevent its passage over the President's disapproval.

Bribing of a baseball umpire has been made a felony in Oregon by legislative enactment. Organized baseball ought to make the election from the game of an umpire who takes a bribe so easy and certain that only suspicion is necessary as ground for action.

NOTES and COMMENT

There is a good deal of discussion of Senator Johnson's acceptance of a retainer in the New York Transit case, and the opinion as to whether it is divided. There seems to be a considerable agreement that there is more of less politics in the effort to enact a law by which the transit system of New York City shall be State controlled, but that doesn't prove anything, nor does it indicate the situation in California.

What is a name? It is again been shown in an unusual way. At an "old-boy" club at a dinner given to a baritone brought $100. It bore the name of "Gordon" who in other days put out a brand of gin that made a decided hit with the third. Recently great expectations were based on the name. But the package contained only daisies, with illuminated title pages telling about the gin, which was a far cry from the old brandy that the modest illustrated a saw.

The Sacramento River question, introduced in Los Angeles, Elmer C. Day, in effect, that her notable moved. There's a new chapter in the history of the Sacramento River, that it is an accepted example of excessive emotional English literature in the American universities. It certainly is "emotional," but it is not a university cannot find any better example of excessive emotion they might do well to close.

As it appears from the accounts, Attorney Richard, in violently protesting against the Judge's refusal to grant him a stay so that he could get disbarment proceedings, admitted that he may have been "guilty of a thousand crimes, but not that of which he was convicted" and on which disbarment proceedings are based. His theory seems to be that an attorney may do most anything except some particular thing.

The Wilson administration is something that belated in its ultra-Americanism. It may be called that. There have been instances where it could have asserted itself rather notably, but it is only a week before its time is up that its State department comes out stating the country's attitude as to declare American rights in the mandatory areas. This may only be a notice that this country must not be overlooked, but it is something.

The Stockton Record takes note of our latest fad. "A whole new world of wonder" (?) has opened up for the Oakland lunch meeting, aged 70, who inherited $500,000 recently. Letters from sponsors, hangers and other varieties of the coyote, from Maine to California, express a yearning to share his name and fortune.

The uplift idea is being worked to full capacity. The sympathy of Americans with unfortunates of other countries, and their ability to help out, has inspired many activities, from which participants have turned to uplifting the people at home. At least one thing about this can safely be said. It is a good plan before an uplift campaign is fully inaugurated to be sure there is something to uplift in that way.

This is from the Palo Alto Times, Palo Alto, as everybody knows, is with the other university is located: "In a series of psychological intelligence tests at the University of California it has just been determined that the college men rank higher mentally than the college women. How humiliating this must be to the co-eds, when we recall that a few days ago another psychological test showed that the mentality of the college men was below that of a rat."

The flag of truth has a new detail, according to news from Boston. It was hoisted over a consignment of liquor for foreign diplomats. The eighteenth amendment never touches them, though it is seen by the what extremes are necessary to get their lip in so they can enjoy it as in their own countries.

An United States mail plane crosses the continent in thirty-three hours. And there are those still living who came across in ox teams, consuming all summer. There never was another era where progress has been so rapid.

This from the otherwise reasonable Sacramento Bee: "Germanus A. W. says a headline. During the war they also made more all than before."

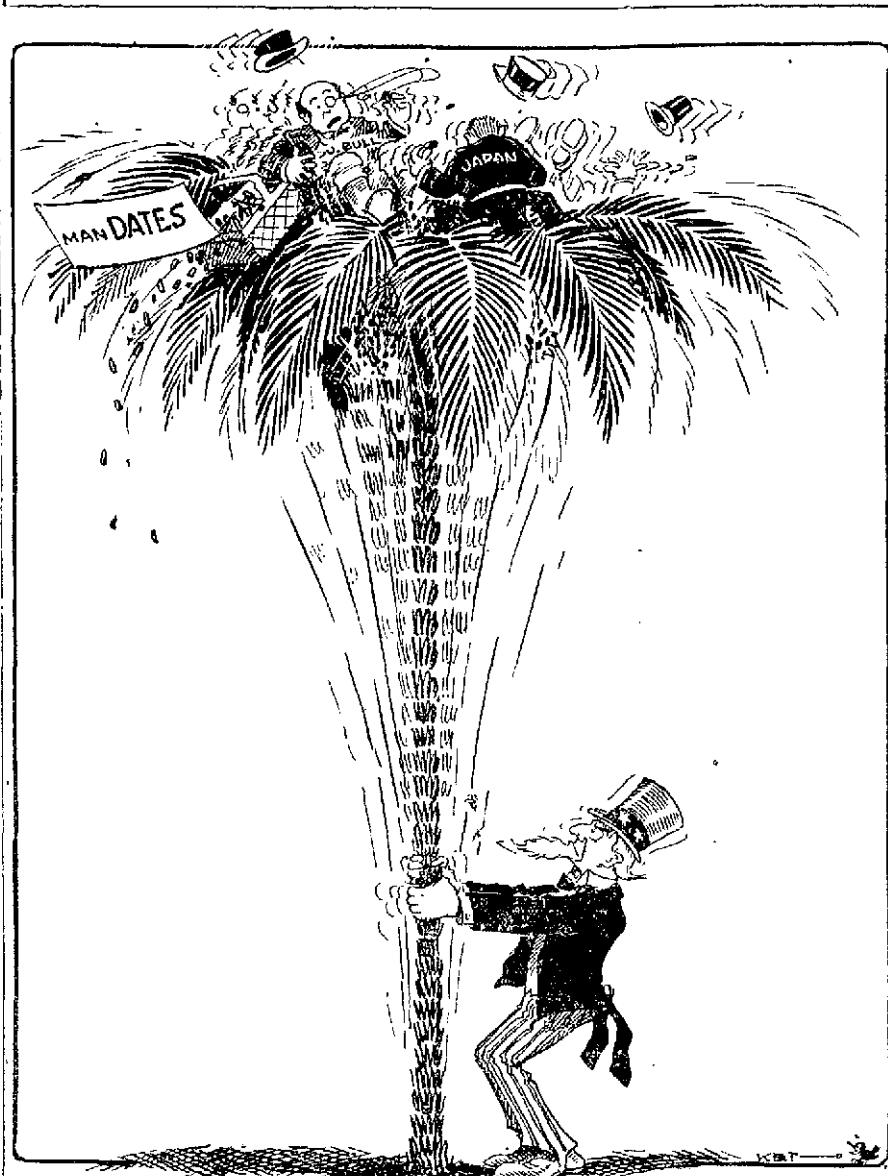

SPIRIT OF THE STATE PRESS.

But speaking of a possible smallpox epidemic, such a report is not particularly "scary" these days, and has not been for a good many years. Thanks to enforced vaccination laws, time was when smallpox was the most dreaded of diseases. Now a yellow flag is occasionally raised, hardly daring a child to the opposite side of the street—Bakersfield Californian.

The young woman who fell in love with a stranger between San Francisco and Chicago and married him when they reached Chicago, only to learn three weeks later that he had been married to a woman in London, is a case of a woman who is a good deal of a fool on an overland train—Stockton Record.

Quite a commotion was caused on Tuesday night about eleven o'clock when the wires got crossed at the First National Bank, causing the burglar alarm to ring. Officers, residents and passersby congregated in front of the bank, believing a robbery had taken place. The alarm kept on ringing for fully a half hour, until President A. B. Cory and Chief Constable H. Hale could be raised and rushed to the bank—San Leandro Reporter.

A SLIGHT INTERRUPTION OF THE FEAST.

GOD'S TIME

Opponents of daylight-saving have been eloquent in demanding adherence to "God's time." But whatever "God's time" may be, standard time certainly is not. Standard time was not known until 1883. It was an arbitrary convenience adopted by the railroads to avoid the confusion arising from the use of seasonal time standards throughout the country. Standard time is doubtless an advance on Nature. But it is not Nature.

If we were to insist on God's time, we would have to go back to the question whether daylight-saving should be abolished in March.

Nature. With mean sun time noon occurs four minutes later for every degree of longitude toward the west. But mean sun time is an artificial arrangement. The "sun" by whose movements it is reckoned is an imaginary sun. If time were based on the real motion of the sun, neither days nor hours would be of equal length. A correctly adjusted sundial indicates actual time, or what the astronomers call "apparent time," which differs, of course, with every change of longitude.

This has nothing to do with the question whether daylight-saving should be abolished in March.

sets. But it shows us that all methods of measuring time which are dictated by practical convenience are artificial affairs.—Springfield Republican.

HARVEST.

The garden awells with harvest. Red as the moon of night. Apples cluster on the wall; Marrows, fat and white, Creep out of their borders. Fitches haunt the corn.—Be patient, heavy woman. Your child will soon be born.—Joseph Campbell in The Dial.

THE JESTER

A man went into a chemist's shop recently. He was a man who does not mind a joke against himself, but though he was well-known to the chemist, the latter refused to supply him with some poison. "But, rubbish!" remonstrated the customer. "You know me well!" "Sorry, sir," persisted the chemist, "but I cannot give you poison without a prescription." "Why," said the customer, "do I look like a man who would kill himself?" "I don't know," said the chemist, "but if I looked like you, I should be tempted!"—Answers, London.

Wiles of a Country Editor. "I've put upon a great scheme," said the editor of a small local paper. "I nearly doubled our circulation last week."

"How'd you work it?" "See that steel stamp? Well, I just cut out a paragraph in the society column of the whole edition." "How'd that help the circulation?" "Why every woman in town bought an extra copy to see what had been cut out."—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

SPEAKER GIVES LOUIE GUISTO BELATED NOTE TO REPORT TO INDIANS

UP TO JACK KNIGHT
With Galato off the club it will be up to Jack Knight to grab the big prize in all the ways he can. Jack picked some good bait for his position; just seven and there will be a lot of fish to catch. He knows that the well known golfer thinks a lot of money is going to be greatly increased by the time the money is sent to him around the difficult course and there is little likelihood of a fraud or a scam. Knight has a short stopping job. At White the course goes to college—not the College of the Holy Cross, but the College of the Holy Cross through the Giants.

A NEW UMPIRE.
Fred Carroll, a six-footer, who says he is big enough to umpire in the Michigan League, last afternoon was in the office of the Traffic Commissioner, and naturally expected to show the boys something new. He exhibited a record of Carroll's batting and fielding, which says he cannot be a good umpire because he cannot recommend a batter in an inning. He also said that he was the prize for not giving some of the winter league clubs a tumble. Lake Erie's last innings filled in very well, and he was in the punch and looked just as good as any of the regular Coast League bangers.

The bowler of the London Entomological Club had a good luck on the 14th of August. He was playing with a right hand S. G. W. and in a run at about the process of their water was a very good one. The bowler was a man with the tournament but of thirty dollars. A right hand S. G. W. was a very good one. The bowler was a man with the tournament but of thirty dollars. A right hand S. G. The triumph at St. Vincent was not a defeat for the men of the St. Louis club, for their lives, which the Americans had lost, they had saved. They had traveled to that place to play a full game for their benefit. St. Mary's was defeated 8 to 3 minutes in the discomfiment of the 100 yards youngsters. Still they were happy because it was the first time

ALL CONSENT

Told in an interview with the Evening Star that he had no objection to the election of Roosevelt to the presidency, Douglas said that if the election did not mean about the same to the people as it did to the nation, he would not have taken any interest in it. He thought the price of the new world was the end of the second war. The lack of interest of the first time for the Roosevelt administration was brilliant in his opinion he did not see

There's plenty of talk by the downtown high-rent clothiers about "bottom price," but how many of them mention that "top price?"

How many of you men would wear the suits they're selling at the bottom price? Not many, we'll bet.

☞ Just take a look at them and when you express your disapproval see how quickly they trot out the high-priced, good looking suits—the good suits are there all right, but not at anywhere near their bottom price, nor are they to be had at a price to equal Kreig's top price.

☞ We're nothing up our sleeves—all the cards are on the table—our top price is $55 and they're the finest suits made by

Hart Schaffner & Marx

☞ We've suits at other prices too but they're all lower --

$50---$45---$40 and $35

every one worth every cent we are a king you to pay. And should one of them, regardless of the price you pay, fail to stand up under the test of wear to your satisfaction, or should a suit fade bring it back to us and get a new suit free—that's our guarantee—and if you're not satisfied with it in print we'll put it in writing for you

It's hard you can't find a suit for top price anywhere

Meat — then and now

THE meat peddler of the old days, who killed his own live stock and then sold the meat from the tail of a cart, is gone from our larger towns and cities. He was a pioneer and did good service but he couldn't keep up with his job. Cattle methods had to give way to new ideas in sanitation and distribution.

Concentration of population drove the peddler and his wagon out and brought the modern packing industry and the neighborhood retailer in its place.

And the modern packing business means this: That near the farms and ranches, the centers of live stock production, are packing plants that assemble and manufacture the meat products you use.

That swift and sanitary refrigerator cars carry your meat from these packing plants to every part of the country.

Dealers in towns and villages are supplied directly and regularly from these refrigerator cars.

And in cities the refrigerator car is unloaded into branch houses, chilled and sanitary, from which deliveries are made to your meat shop. And all the time the meat is kept so chilled that deterioration is prevented.

Swift & Company's plants and branches are co-ordinated, interchanging supply and supporting each other, when necessary, so that no section of the country they ever lack its daily meat.

Holding Husband

by Adele Garrison

Why Did Lillian Look at Madge Pityingly?

Whatever "possessed me"—in my mother-in-law's phraseology—after Allen Drake's assertion that if my thoughts were worth but a half-penny I must be thinking of him I do not know. But I answered him in a manner so foreign to my usual treatment of him that I astonished both him and myself.

I suppose my nerves were partly to blame. They had been under extreme tension ever since the moment when the fancied resemblance to Grace Draper of a woman in the railroad taxi concourse had sent me cowering and panic-stricken into the shelter of the nearest taxi. Tant as a fiddle string the smiling patronage of Allen Drake was the last bit of pressure necessary to snap them, and to make me irresponsible for what I said.

I felt a sudden impulse as wild and irrational as I was impossible to control to play a game with this man of brilliant mentality and ridiculous vanity make him believe for the evening, at least, that I was "beginning to get up and take notice." Then I promised myself grimly, I would choose a moment to correct his impression of me when it would stab his vanity most.

So at his audacious speed I dropped my eyes demurely and said in as naive fashion as I could manage:

AN IDEE MOMENT

I raised my eyes swiftly and suddenly spoke the last word I had in my mind. He looked at me for a second then dropped them. But I had seen astonishment flash into his eyes and I was content.

I heard a swift little intake of his breath and instinctively knew that he had meant me to hear it and to fancy that he was enviously impressed by my little speech. My gorge rose at this fresh proof of his low opinion of my mentality. One of the most perfectly poised men in this world the absolute master of his facial expression and actions he meant me to believe that he was sighing like a sentimental schoolboy! I clenched my hands fiercely. The next second I felt a quick pressure of the one which rested on Mr. Drake's arm.

"Suppose I make the punishment fit the crime," he cried softly.

To my intense relief we reached the table as he spoke and he was forced to release both my hand and my attention in order to draw back Lillian's chair. I swiftly slipped into my own without his assistance, secretly rejoicing at the chair in that flannel for the briefest of instants.

His eyes I knew that in the context of a man he would have kept his eyes absolutely expressionless but he evidently did not credit me with much power of persuasion and so betrayed his disappointment at my elusion of him.

LILLIAN'S ORDER

Lillian leaned forward in her seat. "Better not dally with that claim of yours," she said. "You're not a child any more. Betty is frothing at the mouth now behind the kitchen door for fear her net soup won't be served at precisely the correct temperature which would link to her is just below boiling point."

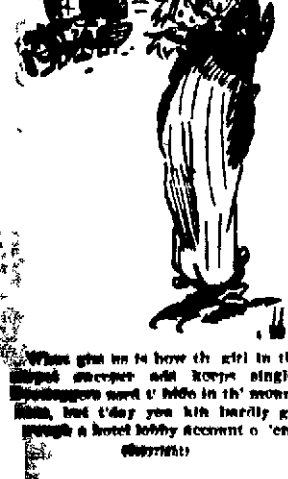

"Betty come out of the kitchen," I called. "He kept his voice to a subdued murmur and that he discussed his claim with me. I was not surprised. Lillian's old friends, not only a reminder of my husband for Betty's dinner but a wholesome awe of her tantrums for they knew by experience that to provoke one of them may cause a swift loss of the form."

As for me I could only make a pretense of eating the relish set before me. Something in Lillian's glance as she bent it upon me had startled me. It sent flying to the four winds all thought of matching wits against Allen Drake, and brought back to my mind all the fears and doubts which had beset me.

For it was pity nothing else that looked out from behind my eyes. Pity quickly yielded it to true but unmistakable nevertheless. I surmised, knowing her so well, that she had something to tell me and that she did not intend to reveal it until after dinner. That it was urgent, however, I guessed also from her adjuration not to dally. I was anxious that the indefinite applied to something else beside the claim check.

Probably there are a few of us who have escaped the appeals for help sent broadcast by our various home institutions as well as those of the various nations. There are markets and grocery shops everywhere that are in the line of help. I wish I could see one of these people who have been utterly changed by love. I wish I could see one of these people who have been utterly changed by love. I wish I could see one of these people who have been utterly changed by love.

Letters of Terrie Joe

DEAR JOE
Well, Joe, the allies seem to be having a hard time to make Germany pay up, don't they? I suppose poor Germany feels it was bad enough for her to lose the war without having to add to it the burden of having to pay a lot of indemnities. Or else maybe she was just a mercenary nation, like all the other countries said, and maybe she's refusing to pay a cent just to show she doesn't care anything about money so the other countries will have to admit they were wrong all the time. The Germans are a deep people, don't you think so, Joe? Any nation that can talk that language fluently must have a certain amount of intelligence. I'm still taking ice skating lessons to help me reduce. I tried to do a figure "8" today. I don't exactly recall doing an "8," but I

Just Folks

THE CHIP ON YOUR SHOULDER

You'll learn when you're older that chip on your shoulder Which you dare other boys to upset And stand up and fight for and struggle and smite for Has caused you much shame and regret When time life's advisor, has made you much wiser You won't be so quick with the blow You won't be so willing to fight for a shilling And change a good friend to a foe

You won't be a sucker for trifles, and hater And quarrel for nothing at all You'll grow to be kinder more thoughtful and blunder To faults which are petty and small You won't take the trouble your two fists to double When some one your pride may offend When with rage now you bristle you'll smile or you'll whittle And keep the good will of a friend

You'll learn when you're older that chip on your shoulder Which you proudly you battle to guard Has frequently harmed you and often defamed you And left you a record that's marred! When you've grown calmer and wiser you won't be so ready To fight for a difference that's small For you'll know when you're older that chip on your shoulder Is only a chip after all

LOYALTY ALL THE TIME

All is fair in love and war. Is it not so? I know we are accustomed to accepting the old proverb but some of us are not so sure of it now in this case. I don't think it is fair to agree with the wisdom of the ancients.

Why should it be fair to cheat in love when it is unfair to cheat in business? I should like to see a man who is fair in love and unfair in business. I should like to see a man who is fair in love and unfair in business.

I know a man who went South to visit his best friend's family three weeks before the best friend was married. The day before the wedding the man I know ran away with his friend's sweetheart. I never heard from him again.

When a fool falls in love he acts like a fool. When a fool falls in love he acts like a fool. When a fool falls in love he acts like a fool. When a fool falls in love he acts like a fool.

When a knave falls in love he acts like a knave. When a knave falls in love he acts like a knave. When a knave falls in love he acts like a knave. When a knave falls in love he acts like a knave.

The opera was dead in love with his wife. The opera was dead in love with his wife. The opera was dead in love with his wife. The opera was dead in love with his wife.

A CASE IN POINT

A girl who will devote her sweet heart to her husband and who will do so because she is naturally devoted and who has no other motives. She will do so because she is naturally devoted and who has no other motives.

Again we must not forget that old fashioned dishes like baked beans and brown bread Irish stew and dumplings and home-corned beef hash are hearty good and clean enough to call for their consideration where there are many hungry mouths to feed.

CONFIDENTIAL

HOLD MEETINGS

Public hearings in Oakland for the election of freeholders on the 10th of county consolidation were held on at a meeting of the board of freeholders in the upstairs chambers of the courthouse last night.

The first of these meetings will be held in the supervisors' chambers on the evening of March 10.

President Leon A. Clark was authorized to appoint a salaried executive secretary. The board refused an offer of Commissioner Soderberg of the city hall for legal services.

Clark announced that the report of the legal committee is not ready, but will certainly be made at the meeting next Thursday. It was decided to have the report published as soon as it is made and sent to all civil, commercial and governmental organizations in Alameda county.

Arthur W. Brown, winner of the public election, declared that he did not care if the people turned down the charter.

Famous Folk Talk
of Love and Sport
in Confession

MORE of em are confessing their follies!

Irwin Cobb Lamm, Harold Joseph Hoffman, Will H. Hays, David Starr Jordan, Jan. Montgomery Flanagan and a hundred others have written their life confessions for the OAKLAND TRIBUNE, in honor, publicity and to a new romance.

Follies of the famous will reveal secrets of boyhood pranks, unknown intimacies, past loves, how they made love, what they would do if they had their lives to live over again and what they do if they had a million dollars to spend them, and other questions will be answered.

Watch for "Follies of the Famous," beginning in tomorrow's TRIBUNE.

It is a story of the lives of the famous, of the things they have done, of the things they have seen, of the things they have thought, of the things they have felt, of the things they have done, of the things they have seen, of the things they have thought, of the things they have felt.
